

Public Notice

South African Reserve Bank

Following reports to the effect that some businesses do not accept the R200 note as a mode of payment, the Central Bank of Swaziland in conjunction with the South African Reserve Bank would like to assure members of the public that the R200 notes of the big five series (see images below) is and should be accepted as a legal tender.

In 2010 these R200 notes were recalled by the South African Reserve Bank. Please note that these old series notes are NOT fake. They were only withdrawn from circulation to be replaced by an upgrade of the R200 note (currently in circulation).

The Central Bank of Swaziland would therefore like to assure members of the public that all versions of the R200 note are a legal tender, including the Mandela R200 note.

For further clarifications about this, members of the public may contact the Central Bank of Swaziland's Communications Office at 2408 2280, email info@centralbank.org.sz or visit our website at www.centralbank.org.sz
